

CASE STUDY:

Manufacturer with HR Team

Client Challenge:

A manufacturing service company grew to the point that the owner's wife was forced to start working two extra days a week to help manage HR matters. The owner was tied up with servicing existing and new contracts and no longer had time to manage safety training and OSHA regulations. Additionally, the company-provided health insurance was becoming increasingly expensive.

Employer Advantage Solution:

We deployed a team of HR, payroll, safety and benefits professionals to manage the company's administrative tasks. This allowed the owner to focus on growing his business and his wife to return to her previous preferred work schedule.

Business Impact:

Our safety team provided the training needed to give peace of mind back to the owner and the employees. The owner's wife was able to cut her work time back down to part time so she could spend more time with her children and grandchildren. Furthermore, we saved the company $8,000 a year in health insurance premiums.
